Work Experience

Head of Customer Success and Partnerships

Pomelo Pay- Payments software- Fintech- 2020-Dec2021

- Reported directly to the UK CEO to manage strategy for incoming customers through the pipeline and current accounts.
- Managed a team of sales staff, account managers and onboarding managers to keep customer satisfaction high and customer journey as smooth as possible whilst maximising customer potential and conversion rates.
- Worked closely with tech teams and compliance teams to pioneer a new onboarding and due diligence functions by using Open Banking information to improve our due diligence and onboard customers with even more insight than ever before. Actively decreasing our vulnerability to high risk applications over night.
- Carried out high level pitches and demos to senior board members and directors in order to sign up new businesses.
- Worked closely with heads of department to make sure that strategic tech decisions were always based on customer satisfaction and or loyalty. It was always my job to make sure that what we were going to build next would yield better conversion, better satisfaction, more transactions and a lower churn rate. If at any point we were going in a direction that didn't reflect those goals it would be my job to steer it back so we were continuously focused on what our customers need and how we can make their lives easier.
- Use partnerships to reduce the burden on the developers- If someone has already built it we may not need to; a partnership gives us access to their tech and they get access to our customer base.
